

NEW YORK CARRIED BY DEMOCRATS

LOSS IS HEAVY IN EVERY STATE ON RETURNS FOR LOWER HOUSE

REED LEADING BY 54,000

Senator Dupont of Delaware is leading for both the short term and long term to follow.

New York.—The Empire state has gone democratic by an unprecedented plurality for Al E. Smith, democratic candidate for governor, over Nathan L. Miller, republican incumbent. His plurality is estimated at 400,000.

With the great sweep that returns him to the gubernatorial chair, Smith carried with him the entire state ticket, including Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York's health commissioner, for United States senator.

The complexion of the next house of representatives is a little doubtful although the republicans will probably retain control.

In the house Speaker Gillett had been re-elected and Meyer London, the only socialist, had been defeated.

In the senate contests, the New York republican state committee had conceded the defeat of Senator Calder by Dr. Royal S. Copeland, New York City's democratic health commissioner. In Connecticut Senator McClean, republican, was leading home J. Spillacy, his democratic opponent.

In Delaware, Senator Dupont, republican, was leading for both the short term and the long term to follow.

In Indiana former Governor Ralston, democrat, with only a part of the state reported, was leading former Senator Albert J. Beveridge, republican, in what appeared to be a close contest.

In Iowa, Smith W. Brookhart, republican, running to fill the unexpired term of former Senator Kenyon, was leading on the face of the returns. In Maryland, Senator France, republican, was ahead of William Cabell Bruce, democrat. In Massachusetts, Senator Lodge was given a substantial lead. In Michigan, Senator Townsend was ahead of his opponent, Woodbridge N. Ferris.

In Missouri, Senator Reed, democrat, is leading with more than 54,000 majority. In New Jersey, where prohibition was largely an issue, Governor Edwards, democrat, running on a wet platform was slightly ahead of Senator Frelinghuysen, republican, running with prohibition endorsement.

Representative Fess, of Ohio, was leading Senator Pomerene, democrat, on whom a hard fight has been conducted by the labor element for his vote on the Esch-Cummings transportation law and the senator's stand in the recent railway strike. In Pennsylvania, Senators Reed and Pepper appeared to have been elected, and in Rhode Island Senator Gerry, the democratic incumbent, was ahead. In Tennessee, too, the democratic incumbent Senator McKellar, was running ahead of his opponent, and in Texas, where a democratic nomination is equivalent to an election, Earle B. Mayfield was leading.

In Utah, former Governor Barber, republican, was on the face of early returns running ahead of Senator King, democrat. Senator King is a Mormon, but Senator Smoot, who is a power in the Mormon church, campaigned for Mr. Barber.

LaFollette is Elected
In Vermont, Representative Greene, republican, had a large lead in his race for a seat in the senate and in West Virginia, Senator Sutherland, republican, was ahead of his democratic opponent. In Wisconsin, Senator LaFollette, republican, was declared to be elected.

The notable contest in the governorships was in New York, where Governor Miller, the republican governor, early conceded defeat at the hands of Alfred E. Smith, democrat.

There appeared to be no doubt of the election of Gifford Pinchot, with a republican slate as governor of Pennsylvania.

Kansas Races Warm
Republicans are leading in seven of the eight congressional districts in Kansas in the race for representatives in congress.

In the first district D. R. Anthony, republican, had a big lead.

In the second district, Edward C. Little, republican, had a safe lead over William H. Thompson, his democratic opponent.

W. H. Byrout, republican, is elected over Charles Stephens, democrat, in the third district.

Home Hoch, republican, had a wide margin in the fourth district over Walter W. Austin, democrat.

In the fifth district, the republican candidate, James G. Strong, had the best of his democratic opponent.

Sixty-two out of 422 precincts in the sixth district gave Hays B. White, republican, 7,779, and F. W. Boyd, democrat, 6,344.

J. H. Tischer, republican, had a big lead over A. S. Alphin, democrat, in the seventh district.

The eighth district is the only district in which a democrat was leading.

"JACK" WALTON WINS IN RACE FOR GOVERNOR OF OKLAHOMA

PLURALITY OF OKLAHOMA CITY MAYOR SHOWS POPULARITY

"FORGET IT" FIELDS' SAYS

The Tables are Turned and the Land-slide of 1920 is Turned to Defeat By Oklahoma Democrats.

Oklahoma City.—J. C. Walton was elected governor by a plurality that may exceed 50,000; the whole state democratic ticket was swept into office by tremendous majorities, and seven of the eight congressional districts will be represented in the next congress by democrats. One lone republican survives, M. C. Garber, who defeated Manuel Herrick for the nomination, and his majority is greatly reduced.

With returns in from approximately half of the precincts, Walton has 135,364, Fields 102,215, a plurality of 33,149.

OKLAHOMA'S NEXT GOVERNOR

MAYOR J. C. WALTON

for Walton. If the returns continue in the same ratio, his plurality may very easily reach between 50,000 and 60,000.

A few of the counties carried by the Oklahoma City mayor are Adair, Atoka, Beckham, Bryan, Carter, Cherokee, Choctaw, Cleveland, Cotton, Craig, Garvin, Grady, Harmon, Hughes, Jackson, Kiowa, Latimer, LeFlore, McLain, McIntosh, Marshall, Mayes, Pittsburg, Pontotoc, Roger Mills, Stephens, Tillman. The counties giving Fields plurality on early returns are Alfalfa, Lincoln, Logan, Noble, Oklahoma, Okmulgee, Pawnee, Payne, Tulsa, Washington, and Woods.

Neither Walton nor Fields would make a statement Tuesday night. The successful candidate was found in a corner room at democratic headquarters in the Lawrence hotel, surrounded by friends and party leaders. As he sat at the window watching the late returns flashed upon a screen on the opposite side of the street, R. H. Wilson, unsuccessful candidate for the nomination in the primary, stepped up, slapping the mayor on the back and offering his congratulations.

"Thank you, Bob," Walton replied. "And thank you again for your wonderful support. I shall never forget the way in which you get behind me."

When requested to make a statement for publication, Walton declined. "No," he said, "nothing at present. In a day or so I will have something to say, but nothing now."

Fields, too, was found in an office at his headquarters, sitting with one or two friends apart from the seething turmoil of the outer chambers, where hundreds of admirers held out to the last, refusing to admit defeat.

Asked if he cared to address the public, he merely smiled. When pressed for an answer he shrugged his shoulders, throwing out his hands, as though in resignation, and said: "Forget it. I'm not going to make a statement now or ever."

"The Blues."

This phrase, descriptive of moods of depression or melancholy, has an interesting origin. It was formerly believed that working with indigo dyes caused fits of melancholy, as the chemical worked on the system through the skin. As the dyes were nearly always stained blue in parts of their bodies, the phrase came into current use to express low spirits or moodiness.

A. C. Alexander, republican state chairman, likewise refused to talk. Known as a silent man, Alexander merely shook his head when questioned. Irving Page, G. O. P. candidate for treasurer, however, was more communicative.

"Concede defeat, you bet I do," he answered. "Just say for me that the best man won." And Page smiled as though he meant just what he said. "A. S. J. Shaw will be a credit to his office and I want to thank him for the kind of a campaign he made. It is a pleasure to lose to such a man," he added.

The overwhelming democratic victory is taken as a sweeping rebuke to the reactionary policies of the national republican administration. Entering the lists with a majority of five out of the eight members Oklahoma has in the lower house of congress, the G. O. P. will stagger out of the battle clinging to one lone seat, and that one was seriously menaced. Not since 1918 has the state been represented by more than seven democrats.
